

This free workshop focuses on building awareness about clinical trials. People impacted by cancer and their loved ones are invited to join us to learn how trials are structured, how to foster an open dialogue with the health care team about eligibility, and the viability of clinical trials as a treatment option. In addition, participants will learn about the importance of shared decision making and will be introduced to resources to help facilitate these conversations. Several clinical trial patients will also share their stories.

Featured speakers include:

- Kim Turner, Clinical Trials Nurse, Genesis Cancer Care Institute
- Katy D'Aprile, Clinical Trials Nurse, Holden Cancer Center Quad Cities
- Shelle Sikkema, Clinical Trials Nurse, Unity Point-Moline

Date: Tuesday, September 12, 2017

Time: 5:30 p.m. – 8:00 p.m. Includes dinner.

Location: Gilda's Club Quad Cities, 1234 E. River Drive, Davenport, Iowa

Can't attend in-person? Join us from home!

This event will be streamed live from our Facebook page, so you can watch it from anywhere you have a computer! Just go to www.facebook.com/GildasClubQC. #GCQTrials to submit questions ahead of time.

For more information about accessing the Facebook Live event, contact kelly@gildasclubqc.org.

To register for the in-person or Facebook Live event, contact Melissa at (563) 326-7504, or email melissa@gildasclubqc.org

This program is provided through unrestricted educational grants from:

